

Weeping Woman

"Cecily Overman and Siouxsie Suarez, as the Furies, are really, really good at being really, really, creepy."

"stylishly directed by Michelle Seaton and Stef Sertich, and backed by a storytelling device ripe with explosive potential."

"Weeping Woman remains an impressive feat: a largely involving, daring, and yes, even girlishly fright-inducing theatrical experience."

Erik Henriksen, The Portland Mercury

"a high-powered, haunting piece"

"The cast is stunning: Casey McDermott turns out a tour-de-force performance [and] Mindi L. Logan maintains the high emotional intensity required of the role without overdoing it - no small feat"

Holly Johnson, The Oregonian

ElectroPuss

"a frantic, funny program of super-heroes and villains."

"When the plug on this show is finally pulled the results are pretty hilarious"

Anna Simon, The Portland Mercury

"The cast masters the cartoon characters, with Todd Van Voris and Casselle LaTourette standouts as frighteningly dysfunctional executives"

Tina Satter, The Tribune

"The costumes by Morgan Shanafelt beautifully echo the surrealism of the piece."

"a nightmare setting akin to Batman's Gotham City comes to life in comic-book fashion."

Holly Johnson, The Oregonian